

SENATE DEMOCRATS UNITED ON TARIFF

EXPECTED THAT SUPPORT OF CONFERENCE REPORT WILL BE UNANIMOUS.

DIFFERENCES SETTLED

Chairman Simmons Confident There
Would Be Little Delay in Securing
Final Action on Bill.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Democratic support for the conference report on the tariff bill appeared to be united when the senate today began the final consideration of the democratic revision measures.

The all day caucus of yesterday which had thrashed out the differences within party ranks and brought about unanimous support of a conference report led Chairman Simmons of the finance committee to hope that there would be little delay in securing final action on the bill.

Republican senators had not disclosed the extent of their proposed criticism of the conference agreement when the day's work began in the senate, but it was expected that Senators La Follette, Penrose and others would speak at some length.

Drop Cotton Futures.
The decision of the senate democrats to drop the entire cotton future law is expected to meet with the approval of the house.

The so-called seamen's bill to abolish involuntary servitude and improved working conditions on merchant vessels which President Taft refused to sign last March, was endorsed today by the senate committee on commerce and will be recommended for passage in the senate.

THINK HOTEL THIEF FUGITIVE MURDERER

Man Who Confessed to Robbing Cincinnati Hostelry May Be Murderer Sought at Indianapolis.

Cincinnati, Oct. 2.—Photographs of John Clark of New York, who confessed to robbing a local hotel last Monday, will be rushed to Indianapolis and Louisville today in an effort to ascertain whether Clark bears any resemblance to Joseph Ellis, the much sought for fugitive who is accused of having robbed and killed a man in a hotel in Indianapolis on September 22. The local police say that in one or two respects the description of Ellis corresponds to Clark, but in others the two are widely different.

Davis was arrested upon the complaint of Robert J. Foster, a postmaster of Louisville, Ky. Foster charged that a conspiracy of Ryan, the McNamara brothers and fifty other iron workers to transport dynamite to be used in wrecking property of the American Bridge Company was still in existence.

The formal charge against Davis, who is an iron worker is that he violated the federal law against the transportation of high explosives on passenger trains engaged in interstate commerce. Foster said that Davis gave him a written confession before his arrest today. Bail for Davis was fixed at $10,000. The United States district attorney's office gave out this afternoon what purported to be a synopsis of Davis' confession.

NEW TARIFF MEANS KEEN COMPETITION

Cotton Manufacturers Decide to Start
Campaign in Other Lands for Sale of American Goods.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 2.—Because keen competition is expected in foreign made goods through the new tariff law that is about to be enacted, manufacturers attending the meeting of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers have arranged today to wake up and start a campaign in other lands for the sale of American made goods. The manufacturers were addressed by William Whitman of New York on the new tariff and foreign competition.

Whitman said that now have competition from abroad of no mean importance, he said, "but under the new schedules we shall have more and more. In these it may and likely will be for a time, calamitous, for while we are seeking ourselves to new competitors, the foreign manufacturers will be seeking every weak spot in our new armor and attacking us there."

AWAIT THE ARRIVAL OF FEDERAL FORCES

Citizens of Piedras Negras Take Measure to Protect Themselves Against Insurgents.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The citizens of Piedras Negras have elected a mayor ad interim and have posted guards throughout the city to maintain order pending the expected arrival of the Mexican federal forces, according to a report to the state department. Large numbers of refugees continued to leave for the United States but consular reports say that good order is being maintained despite the arrival of large numbers of people from the interior.

A filibustering expedition attempted to capture Piedras Negras from the American side of the Rio Grande today. They were repulsed by the border patrol and the neutral guards placed in charge of the city yesterday after the constitutionalist evacuation.

HELD AS DYNAMITER MT. VERNON BRIDGE

George E. Davis, Alias O'Donnell, Arrested at New York As a Co-spirator With McNamara.

New York, Oct. 2.—George E. Davis, alias George O'Donnell, was arrested by a United States marshal here today on a charge of blowing up with dynamite a New Haven railroad bridge at Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Sept. 3, 1911. Davis is also charged with having conspired with the McNamara brothers, Frank M. Ryan and other officers of the International Bridge and Structural Iron Workers' Union to wreck the Mt. Vernon and other bridges. The marshal's agents that Davis has confessed. Davis was arraigned before a United States commissioner, waived examination and consented to go to Indianapolis where he is under indictment for transporting explosives. In his confession, it is alleged, Davis has implicated several of the Mt. Vernon explosion and other explosions.

PAY FIVE THOUSAND TO CONFIDENCE MEN

Canadian and Wife Travel From Manitoba to St. Louis to Bet On "Sure Thing" Horse Race.

St. Louis, Oct. 2.—William J. Young and wife of Brandon, Manitoba, today appeared to the police here to search for two men who have swindled them out of $5,000 which Young and his wife had bet on a "sure thing" horse race.

Mr. and Mrs. Young traveled 2,000 miles to St. Louis to invest the money with the men and yesterday they turned the money over to the two confidence men in a local hotel.

These two men left the hotel with the money yesterday and Young and his wife would return. When the two confidence men failed to return after several hours Young appealed to the police.

According to his story he and his wife first met the men at West Baden, Ind., ten days ago.

After winning several small bets Young and Kleinfelder were informed by Renter that he had inside information on a ten to one shot. Young and his wife then went to Canada and returned to West Baden Tuesday night with $5,000.

ATTORNEYS ADJOURN SULZER CASE UNTIL MONDAY AFTERNOON

Court Allows Adjournment After Few
Motions of Governor's Council Are Granted.

Albany, Oct. 2.—Adjournment until Monday afternoon was taken in the impeachment trial of Governor Sulzer today after a few motions made by counsel for the defense had been disposed of.

There was no morning session of the Sulzer impeachment trial today and this gave everybody connected with the case except the governor's attorneys a chance to discuss and speculate on his probable defense.

The final plans of the Sulzer attorneys were drawn in a long conference with the governor at the "people's house" this morning following out their rule, which they have stood by firmly—they made no statement. It was believed that their first step would be to ask for a ruling from the court on two things—the constitutionality of articles 1, 2 and 6 and whether the application of private uses of funds given without restriction constituted larceny.

If the court ruled favorably to the defense in the first of these questions it was generally admitted that the case practically would be at an end. Most of the board of managers case

LAWYER IN SULZER IMPEACHMENT CASE

RIOTS AT CALUMET STOPPED BY TROOPS

Nine Copper Miners Arrested Today
For Stoning Men Who Were Going to Work

Calumet, Mich., Oct. 2.—Rioting at the Algonquin mine in the Keweenaw copper district this morning resulted in the arrest of six supposed copper mine strikers. Men going to work were stoned and troops were compelled to use their riot sticks to disperse the mob. General P. J. Abbey was personally in charge of the military activities and ordered the arrests. Warrants have been issued for several other persons.

Fifteen hundred strikers and sympathizers including many women, had gathered to stop workmen from entering the mine. The crowd was in an ugly mood and many persons were armed with stones and clubs. One arrest was made in Calumet.

DR. ANGELL'S CONDITION IS UNCHANGED TODAY

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 2.—The attending physician announced today that although Dr. James R. Angell, the aged president emeritus of the University of Michigan, experienced a restless night, his condition remained practically unchanged today and as long as he does not lose strength they will entertain hope for his recovery.

ORTHODOX JEWS ARE OBSERVING NEW YEAR

World According to Their Calendar is 5,674 Years Old.

At sunset yesterday the world was 5,674 years old, according to the Jewish calendar. It was the Jewish New Year day yesterday—Rosh Hoshannah it is called—and Jews all over the world observed the day. This also is the beginning of the holy season, which ends Oct. 23, with Shemini Atzereth, the "feast of conclusion."

In the reformed synagogues New Year day is celebrated from sunset Oct. 1 to sunset Oct. 2, and among the orthodox the holiday does not end until sunset of Oct. 3.

PLAN CONSTRUCTION OF PARALLEL TRACKS

Milwaukee Road Files Amendment to Articles Permitting Bond Issue
For That Purpose.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 2.—The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad company has filed an amendment to its articles here permitting it, by authority of the last legislature, to issue bonds for the construction of any number of parallel tracks. A number of years ago a law was passed permitting roads to issue bonds for building double tracks. It was considered a novel idea at that time, when it was not thought any company would need more than two tracks. To handle traffic in Milwaukee the railroad commission discovered that several parallel tracks might be necessary. The legislature of 1912 accordingly amended the Milwaukee road's charter to permit the new bonding. The present authorization is for the retirement of bonds on double trackage and the issue of a new series.

DAMAGE FROM FLOOD CAUSES HEAVY LOSS IN THE SOUTHWEST

San Antonio River Overflows Banks
Demoralizing Business in Louisiana.

San Antonio, Tex., Oct. 2.—With the San Antonio river out of its banks and overflowing the downtown districts of this city to a depth of some places a five or six feet, business in San Antonio was demoralized this morning. The damage probably will reach several hundred thousand dollars. Street car service is almost entirely stopped. The electric plant are out of commission.

Quarter Million Damage.
San Marcos, Tex., Oct. 2.—Flood damage totalling at least $250,000 has resulted in this section during the past twenty-four hours from an unprecedented stage in the San Marcos and Blanco rivers which now form a large lake. Several costly steel bridges have collapsed. Railroad traffic is practically suspended.

Lake Charles, La., Oct. 2.—Lake Charles citizens today did not know whether to expect a rise or fall of the water that flooded this city and a large portion of southwest Louisiana for several days. Reports from up river points were that rain had fallen in many places and that the water was rising rapidly.

Reports from several cities in southeast and south Texas indicate that damage from floods resulting from almost unprecedented rainfall in those sections will reach probably more than one million dollars. Rice and other crops have suffered and the lumber industry in southeast Texas and southeast Louisiana has been practically suspended.

Houston reports a total rainfall of 15.13 inches in twenty-five days and the precipitation there has been more than five inches since Tuesday night. Railroad traffic practically has been almost entirely stopped. A very large part of the flooded district.

LAW CAPTURES MAN AFTER LONG WAIT

Walter G. Fernald, Sought For by Authorities Decade Ago, Is Now Held For Trial.

New York, Oct. 2.—With all the appearance of a man who had retired from business after a successful career, Walter G. Fernald appeared as a prisoner before United States Commissioner William C. Connelley today for preliminary examination on an indictment charging him with swindling through the mails. A decade ago Fernald was widely known as the guiding spirit of two prominent companies in New York City. Complaints were made that the companies were doing a fraudulent business and indictments were returned against their officers. Fernald escaped arrest and for years he was charged with which he was charged was not extraditable. Then came a desire to see old Broadway once more and he was held for New York, evidently figuring that he and his case had been forgotten by the authorities. But postoffice inspectors with long memories were on hand to greet him and he was promptly arrested as he stepped down the gangplank.

WORK HAS BEEN BEGUN ON TRANSMISSION LINE

Barnboro, Wis., Oct. 2.—The company which has the contract to build the twenty-three mile line of electric transmission cable towers between Portage and the Sauk dam, have erected tents near Theodore Weigand's place, not far from Prairie du Sac, to begin work on the already digging base holes for towers. There are about fifteen men employed between Merrimack and their camps. The current will be distributed from the station in Portage now maintained by the Kibbourn dam owners, who also own the Prairie du Sac dam, although there are nominally two corporations.

DISTRICT ATTORNEYS' DUTIES MORE CLEARLY DEFINED

The waitress refused to serve Mrs. Shepard and her charge until every one else in the hotel had been served. They went away hungry.

PASTOR CONDEMNNS REMOVAL OF PUBLISHING PLANT

Freeport, Ill., Oct. 2.—At the Rock River conference of the M. E. church today Rev. James R. Shields, Chicago, condemned in strong terms the action of the book committee of the general church in moving the headquarters of the Methodist book concern in Chicago from 414 W. Washington St. to Vabash Avenue on the "edge of the great city of Detroit." Shields said the conference should offer a protest against this action and it should be "such a hot one that it would have to be written on asbestos."

FORTUNES WAGERED ON WORLD'S SERIES

Many Freak Bets Made on Outcome of
New York Giants and Philadelphia
Athletic Battles.

New York, Oct. 2.—Betting on the outcome of the world's series baseball games, which open in New York October 7, started at 10 to 6. It mattered not whether the odds were wanted on Philadelphia or New York, 10 to 6 were the figures. That is the better happened to be in Philadelphia when the National Commission announced the date for the opening game, there was money to be made on the Athletics at 10 to 6. It happened to be in New York the odds were 10 to 6 that the Giants would win.

Hence the unusual situation prevailed that bettors in both cities were willing to give odds on their home teams. This situation obtained for several days until Larry Doyle, captain of the Giants, was injured in an automobile accident and center fielder Snodgrass started a London in his stead. Reports that Doyle and Snodgrass might be unable to play in the series were instantly reflected and bettors in New York were unwilling to risk money on the Athletics.

By far the greatest amount of money placed in the first few days after the opening date was announced the wagers in so-called freak bets. There was no end to these reports from Chicago were that a bet could be had on anything pertaining to the games, and the following were quoted as some of the odds given on bets made there:

Two to one that Bender does not win one game.
Four to one that Bender does not win two games.
Seven to five that Mathewson does not win one game.
Three to one that Mathewson does not win two games.
Twenty-five to one that the series goes over four games.
Two to one that the series does not go seven games.
One hundred to one that the Giants do not win four straight.
One hundred to one that the Athletics do not win four straight.

In New York one bet was recorded, at odds of four to five that Mathewson would pitch the first game. Another bet was reported at even money that Denney would win the series. The same third bet was that the series would go six games. This bet was also at even money. One Giant enthusiast offered one to four that the Giants would win the first three games but found no takers.

Infinite were the variations on which the early bettors laid their money. One man bet even money that the Athletics would make more runs during the first game than the Giants. Another offered even money that the Athletics would lead in hits.

In both New York and Philadelphia the usual plan was heard that money was being offered on the home team without takers.

MILWAUKEE BANK IS CLOSED BY EXAMINER

State Bank Examiner Takes Possession of Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank Because of Shortage.

Milwaukee, Oct. 2.—State Bank Examiner A. J. Kraft today took possession of the Citizens' Trust and Savings Bank and closed the doors of the institution. The liabilities are over one million. The affairs of the company are said to have been in a precarious condition for some time and the action of the bank examiners follows several days' conference with clearing house banks here which had been asked to take over the institution, but finally decided not to assume the burden.

MEASURE TO CHECK HEAVY GOLD EXPORT

Bank of England Raises Bank Rate a Half of One Percent to Protect Its Reserves.

London, Oct. 2.—After a prolonged discussion the directors of the bank of England today decided to raise the bank rate from 4 to 4 and a half percent as a precautionary measure to protect the bank's reserve which had been depleted by over ten million dollars this week by exports to Egypt. The raising of the bank rate was absorbed by the contingent where the scramble for gold continues.

REMOVES PROTECTION OF CIVIL SERVICE

New Provision Tacked on Appropriation Bill Withdrawing Protection to Internal Revenue Collectors.

Washington, Oct. 2.—A new provision that would take practically all deputy United States marshals and deputy collectors of internal revenue out of the protection of the civil service has been added to the urgent deficiency appropriation bill by the senate committee on appropriation which reported the measure back to the senate today. It provides that collectors of internal revenue and United States marshals shall have power to appoint any deputy who is compelled to furnish a bond and "shall have power to revoke the appointment of any subordinate officer or employee and appoint his successor at his discretion without regarding the civil service laws or regulations."

RESCUERS TO REACH
MAN HELD CAPTIVE
SIX DAYS IN MINE

Miner Entombed Since Last Friday Morning Will Probably Be Taken Out Tomorrow.

(By Associated Press.)
Centerville, Pa., Oct. 2.—With twenty-five feet of a solid pillar of coal to excavate, rescuers hope to reach by noon tomorrow Thomas Toshky, who has been entombed in the Continental mine of the Lehigh Coal company for six days. Today E. J. Heffner, mine superintendent, directed the work, installed air compressors in the heading and the work of digging away the wall of anthracite is expected to proceed more rapidly. During the excavation work last night only one miner was able to pick into the face of the coal.

Toshky is becoming very restless. He started to dig himself out of his cell and had picked away about three feet of coal in the direction of the rescuers when those on the outside told him to be careful lest he cut the rope used in drawing his provisions through the long pipe that has been inserted in a mine breach. Toshky was told to stop digging, but he said he had to do something to help pass away the time.

The imprisoned miner begged for a stick of dynamite to blow down portions of the barrier between himself and liberty. To quiet him another bottle of egg nog was sent to him with instructions from Mr. Heffner to try to go to sleep.

Toshky was more cheerful during the night after the fifteen minutes' talk he had with his wife through the pipe yesterday afternoon. He was glad to hear that she and the four children were well and he begged her not to worry about him. Mrs. Toshky saw for herself the efforts that the company are making to save her husband's life and is hopeful he soon will be home. She had mourned him as dead until news was brought to her three days after the accident that he was alive.

Three shifts of thirty men each are engaged in the rescue work. The most experienced miners in the region are enrolled in the corps. A special telephone line was constructed from the mine breach down the mountain three miles to the Lehigh Valley company's office in order that the officials might keep in closer touch with the rescue work.

NEW RAILING AND WALK AT HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE

The sidewalk and steps leading to the main entrance of the high school on High street is undergoing some repairs. An iron railing is being placed on each side of the walk, to prevent the students from tripping on the grass. The sidewalk leading to the main door is being made wider, and at the front corners of the walk is being placed cement pillars where the railing will be attached to. Students not coming to and from the building will have to take to the walk, and not tramp down the grass as has been the case for some years back.

LOCAL TEACHER WRITES INTERESTING ARTICLE

The October issue of "The School Century," an educational publication printed at Oak Park, Ill., contains an interesting article written by Miss Katherine Lane, fifth grade teacher at the Jefferson school of this city. The topic of her selection is "How to Interest Pupils in Geography," and it discusses memory, and cultivation of the imagination in graded school work. She treated on various methods by which teachers might avoid overcrowding or cramming the average school student's mind. Maps are a medium by which this harmonic can be remedied. Her instructions are very clear, and they contain many useful methods.

EXPLANATORY NOTES.
Observations taken at 8 a. m., 75th meridian time. Air pressure reduced to sea level. Isotherms (continuous lines) pass through points of equal air pressure. Isotherms (dotted lines) pass through points of equal temperature; drawn only for zero, freezing, 32 and 60°. Clear; partly cloudy; cloudy; rain; snow; report missing. Arrows show the wind. First figures, lowest temperature past 24 hours; second, precipitation of .01 inch or more for past 24 hours; third, maximum wind velocity.

The barometric depressions that were in the east and north-west yesterday coalesced into a storm of considerable strength. The center of this disturbance is in the St. Lawrence valley, but its influence extends over the lake region and the New England and Middle Atlantic states. It is attended by wind and rain. The heaviest rainfall was at New York, where 3.12 inches fell in 24 hours. An area of high barometer occupies the plains and the northwest, and is attended by fair weather. It is much cooler in the northwest, a drop of 18 degrees in 24 hours being reported at Moorhead, Minn., where the temperature went to freezing this morning.

Barometric depression in the Canadian northwest is attended by warmer weather in the northern Rockies. Havre, Mont., and Swift Current, Sask., report rises of 18 degrees, probably in the form of Chinook winds.

SPORT Snap-Shots

— MORRIS MILLER —

France has its Carpentier, the handsome and dandy boxer, and it seems that America is not without a Carpentier as well. Eddie McGoorty, the middleweight title claimant, is a dandy in every sense of the word. Not only is McGoorty a clever and speedy worker in the ring, but he's also a neat and dapper dresser, as well as a young man of pulchritudinous charms. A photograph of McGoorty all dressed up shows him to be mighty good looking and very tastefully dressed. Undoubtedly McGoorty takes Corbett's old place in fighting circles.

Dode Criss, who some years ago won the world's all-around pinch-hit belt, is coming back into the majors as a pitcher. Criss made his bid for fame with the St. Louis Browns, when after being traded to the Chicago White Sox, first baseman and at every other position, was finally kept for his batting alone. Criss, like the Dutchman in the baseball story, seemed able to hit the ball every time he walked to the plate. But when his batting fell off he was sent back to the minors. He enjoyed a big time in the Texas league this season and has been drafted by the Yankees to pitch in the big league. Reynolds, who caught Criss at Houston and is now with the Yankees, has the following to say of him:

"I've seen Walter Johnson pitch and I'm talking through my hat when I say that Criss has as much, if not more speed than Johnson. His fast ball this year was simply unhittable. He won 22 out of 26 games for Houston and his wonderful speed was mainly responsible." Some of the names of the Carlisle warriors this fall belie their football skill. If we took their names too seriously or were leery of hunches we wouldn't be liable to back the Redskins very heavily. For instance, the name of brave playing quarter is Goesback, and if he always feels the way about it Carlisle's chances wouldn't be very fat. One of the tackle's name is Lookaround, which is also a foolish thing to do too much, especially during the intense moments of the game. Hill ought to make a great guard, though, and Guyon should be able to kid the opposition with effect.

The Cleveland Lambs, an amateur baseball outfit of that city, can claim the amateur championship of the world for the present season at least. The Lambs defeated the Chicago amateur champs, the Carson, Pirie and Scott team of the Windy City, last Sunday, by a score of 6 to 4, and thus won the first organized amateur championship we have had. The thorough organization of amateur leagues throughout the country points to the time when the amateur "world series" games will attract the real big event. Chicago and Cleveland lead all other cities in amateur baseball, but many other towns are coming along rapidly and amateur baseball is being given more serious attention than ever before. St. Louis is well up in amateur baseball and will no doubt provide an earnest contender for the title next season. There will be a convention in February to discuss plans for the organizing of a national amateur baseball association. And if the plans are as successful as there is every reason to believe they will be, there will be a series of games next fall wherein the leading amateur teams from all over the country will be represented.

STAGE IS SET FOR BASEBALL BATTLES

Plans for The World Series Games Finished—Price of Tickets Are From One to Twenty-five Dollars.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Oct. 2.—Everyone of the multitude of details of the campaign of 1913 between the New York Nationals and the Philadelphia Americans for the world's baseball championship has been prearranged. Here are the chief plans:

Time, October 7 and daily thereafter, except Sunday, until one club shall win four games. Place, Polo Grounds, New York; Shibe Park, Philadelphia.

First game to be played in New York, the games thereafter to alternate between Philadelphia and New York.

The games to be played off the next day in the other city from that in which the tie occurred. Thus, if the first game in New York were to result in a tie the game would be played off in Philadelphia the next day, October 8.

Names of eligible players. New York—Burns, Cooper, Grandall, Doyle, Demaree, Fletcher, Fromme, Grant, Herzog, Hartley, Margaret, Whitely, Mathewson, Murray, Meyers, McLean, Merkle, Robinson, McCormick, Shafer, Snodgrass, Thorpe, Tesreau, Wilson, Schupp; Philadelphia—Schang, Lapp, Thomas, Baker, Blaker, Plank, Houck, Brown, Shawkey, Pennock, Bush, Wycoff, McInnis, Collins, Barry, Baker, Orr, Davis, Lavan, Oldring, Strunk, E. Murphy, D. Murphy, Walsh and Daley.

In the event of a seventh game being necessary the city for playing it will be determined by the toss of a coin. In case a game is postponed on account of rain or if for some other cause a legal game is not played the teams will remain in the city where the postponement occurred until a legal game is played. This does not, of course, apply to tie games.

According to the rules governing the World's Series the National Commission will receive 10 per cent. of the gate receipts of each and every game. The players of the two competing clubs will take 60 per cent. of the remaining 90 per cent. of the first four becomes the property of the stock on a basis of 60 per cent. to the winners and 40 per cent. to the losers. The remaining 40 per cent. of the 90 per cent. goes to the club owners. Ninety per cent. of the gate receipts of each and every game after the first four becomes the property of the stockholders of the two contesting clubs.

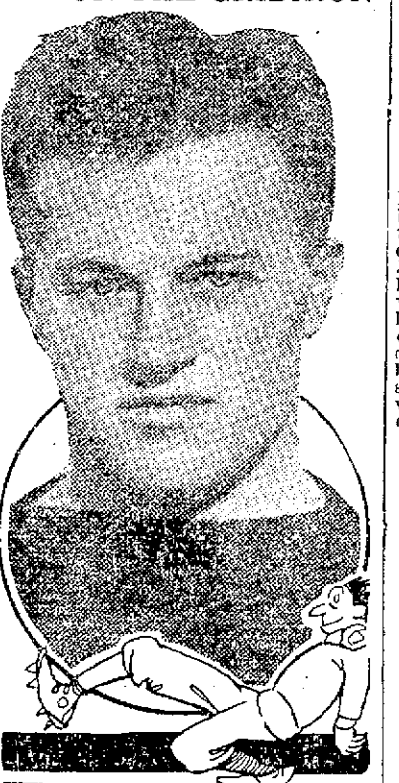

Sale of tickets to be conducted under the auspices of the two clubs concerned. Unreserved seats will be sold at the Polo Grounds and Shibe Park on the day of the game. Reserved seats must be purchased for three games, whether bought in New York or Philadelphia, and if three games are not played the proportionate amount of the purchase price will be refunded. No mail orders will be accepted for reserved seats.

Price of tickets, in New York, seat, four, $25; upper grand stand, $5; lower grand stand, $2; bleachers $1. In Philadelphia, box seats, $5; main grand stand, $4; right and left field pavilions, $2; bleachers, $1.

Seating arrangements. Polo grounds 23,000 reserved seats, 15,000 in bleachers. Shibe park grand stand and bleachers 21,000, standing room for about 2,000 more. Neither club will be permitted to erect extra stands on the field. No spectators will be allowed to overflow on the field and no ground rules will be made.

Time of games, 2 o'clock.

WILL LEAD CRIMSON ON THE GRIDIRON

Captain Storer.

Storer, captain of the Harvard team and veteran line man, will be the playing head on the gridiron when the Harvard eleven clashes with the representatives of the other Eastern colleges. Although Coaches Houghton, Gardner and Withington will do everything in their power to whip the team into shape for the big battles, it will be left to Captain Storer to lead his men through the channels in the battles.

PLAYERS FAIL TO QUALIFY FOR GAME

High School Invaded by Dismal Gloom On Eve of First Gridiron Contest—Coach Gives Out Schedule.

Deep, dark, dismal gloom spread over the high school today when it was learned that some of the best football men were disqualified, seriously impairing the chances of the team in the first game of the season at Edgerton on Saturday. Dalton, McVicar and possibly Dearborn, among the number who have failed to keep their scholarship up to the required, Mickelson and Barnes cannot play, because their standings were not sent to the Edgerton school last Monday.

At first Coach Curtis thought it would be wise to cancel the game, but later decided to play his reserves and take the chances. The sudden change of the lineup will smash everything to pieces, but it is going to be done. Stewart is a regular and his ability on the extremity of the line would have paved the way for a victory Saturday. He will now have to be used at an unaccustomed place, at right half. Jones, a veteran tackle, must play fullback while Atwood is the only veteran in the backfield, and he will be about the only dependable in this back wall. Hares will run the team, Ford being shifted to right end. Smiley, a veteran, will play at left end, the tackles are filled by Amerpohl and Badger while Mount will play the center role. The players are well up for guards, for they have Schenk and McCulloch weighing about one hundred and fifty pounds each, and are fairly fast considering the experience they have had. A crowd of perhaps fifty or more will accompany the team to Edgerton Saturday, and aid them in pulling away with local students. Think the game will be close, but Coach Curtis feels a stinging defeat is due Janesville.

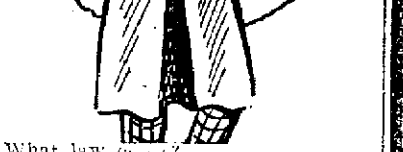

The Cleveland have an exceptional hard schedule to face this fall. Before the Freeport game Curtis expects to have Dalton, McVicar, Mickelson, Dearborn and Barnes back in the fold, and with these valuable men to string of victories unless the substitutes fail to down Edgerton. The schedule is as follows:

Oct. 4th, Edgerton, at Edgerton.
Oct. 11th, Freeport, at Freeport.
Oct. 18th, Burlington, at Burlington.
Oct. 25th, Beloit, at Beloit.
Nov. 1st, Open.
Nov. 8th, No game to be scheduled.
Nov. 15th, Stoughton, here.
Nov. 22nd, Monroe, here.
Northwestern Military Academy of Lake Geneva, have been asked to come here for a game on Nov. 1st, but it is not known that they will accept. Curtis hopes to have the cadets meet the locals on this date, for he feels that he could furnish them with a hard battle. Other teams writing for games are Whitewater and the Delavan Deaf Mutes, both teams of high calibre. Oshkosh, the 1912 state champions, have written for a game, and Curtis says, that if the locals have a clean slate this fall, a game for the state title will be arranged for Turkey Day, at the local driving park.

Curtis has issued notification to the players to be on hand at the high school gymnasium after supper, tonight for signal drill. It is likely that this procedure will prevail many nights, until the team is well seasoned with signals and charging tactics.

BELMONT'S HORSE FAILS TO WIN COVETED RACE

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New Market, Eng., Oct. 2.—August Belmont's Tracery disappointed his backers at the New Market race meeting today. The lot came in second to Cantilever in the $50,000 Jockey Club stakes. Alepo, ridden by Danie Maher, was third. There were seven runners. Tracery looked like a winner when the horses reached the bushes, but was caught in the dip by Cantilever, the latter winning by three lengths. The betting was six to five against Tracery. The race was over a course of a mile and three quarters.

What law counts?

HORSES TRAINED A LOCAL TRACK MAKING VERY GOOD SHOWING

Harness Horse Season Just Closing Shows Interesting Results Preliminary Training.

[By C. E. (Duck) Hunter.] As the close of the harness season is approaching it is not out of place to give a brief resume of what the horses that trained at the track accomplished during the summer's campaign. Following the summer's campaign, the most part they were successful, the hard luck came to a few stags, some of the promising performers sprang met with accidents, or were entered in too fast classes, but making it as a whole it proved to be worth of the spring training at Janesville and next season will see the stable room taxed to its capacity with some of the best strings in the mid-west.

With the ringing down of the curtain on the rail racing in Wisconsin, but a day or two away, the world of hot air circuits will comment on what might have been done and what might have been done. The most comfortable chairs will be the most comfortable of this winter pastime, and here the most information as to what has been done and what has been done. There have been any number of "bear cat" looks already written and columns of his life, winning the first place in a good excess for your investment in 2:08 1/2, finishing second four times, and taking second money in five of the "going," caught this season two, and he was not able to finish his numerous engagements. It is to be hoped that the horses which were so unfortunate as to be kept from the races will winter well.

Six Cylinder Penn has not had the Seigel and Sheridan, owners of Peter Emmett and Mabel Riser, were the first to leave for the scene of battle down through the Nebraska circuit. For the first two weeks these horses did not do well for the reason that they came into contact with extreme temperature changes and very bad tracks. Mabel Riser won her share of the money after striking good tracks near home as they were able to race her at least twice a week and she was always in the pay column.

Peter Emmett did not make the showing that was expected of him for the reason that he had harder fields of horses to contend with, although when he did return to his native state he did not disappoint his many admirers.

W. N. Millard made the best showing with Alice McGregor and President Jr., for with the latter horse he had easy sailing in all his races. He had his field clearly outclassed. In seven times this horse started he won six firsts and one fourth place, making the total of his winnings one thousand and forty dollars.

Alice McGregor had bad luck after leaving Janesville. At Mineral Point she had the misfortune to spring a curb that made it hard for her trainer to keep her in condition for her stake engagements, one at Hamline, Minn., and one at Milwaukee. In her six starts she was three times first, once second, and two times third, making a very creditable showing. Ernest Astell, owned by J. L. Linde, and driven by E. C. Kimlin has been the real "bear cat" that left home for the winner. In his seven starts up to date he has been first three times, second twice, and last week at home for the winner. President Nichols, J. C. N. looked early in the season like he could place a mile in 2:12, but an epidemic that put a good many horses this season out of the "going," caught this horse too, and he was not able to finish his numerous engagements. It is to be hoped that the horses which were so unfortunate as to be kept from the races will winter well.

easy pickings this year that he had last, as there were numerous obstacles in his way. He had much faster horses to compete with and he was laid up in mid-season when he had been doing regular work. Had he been started later in the season it is probable that Penn would have been a harder horse to beat, but taking all handicaps into consideration he made a commendable showing.

The "hard luck" horse, Marke Haine, owned by Jensen and McIntosh of Edgerton, certainly did surprise some of the "wise" ones, especially the "knockers." In Marke's six starts he was four times first, one second, and once he had to be drawn out on account of lameness that was not discovered until the day of his race. This horse started out green at the Janesville races and I had the pleasure of witnessing all his races but one.

In his race at Milwaukee when he took his record of 2:12 1/2, he could easily have stepped the mile in 2:10 if he had to go that fast. It is very unfortunate for the owners of the horse that he pulled up lame for the looked like a mile in 2:07 for Marke at Springfield Ill., where they intend to go with him the following week.

The horses of President John Nichols and Secretary Charles Putnam have had more than their share of bad luck. Josie McKinney in Putnam's stable, whose record is 2:19 1/2, looked and acted like she could make 2:10. In her first start she broke down. Next, Angus Axworthy, that looked as if he could trot in 2:15, went lame at Beloit and was brought home for the winner. President Nichols, J. C. N. looked early in the season like he could place a mile in 2:12, but an epidemic that put a good many horses this season out of the "going," caught this horse too, and he was not able to finish his numerous engagements. It is to be hoped that the horses which were so unfortunate as to be kept from the races will winter well.

and when the sun shines on both sides of the fence next spring the wonders will be able to give the "rail birds" plenty of amusement. The outlook for the coming season bids fair to keep Janesville on the map as a training plant. Several high class trainers have expressed their desire to come here and locate early next season, and all that come will surely obtain a hearty welcome.

A GREAT OBLIGATION.

I HAVE been thinking today of the incalculable and far reaching harm which any person causes by allowing an undesirable tendency in himself to go unchecked.

All that sounds abstruse, doesn't it? It's really quite simple and belongs right in your own life.

For instance, once upon a time there was a man who was naturally very nervous. Instead of trying to overcome this tendency he gave it free rein, and it grew upon him until it had possession of his whole being. It made him irritable and unhappy and hard to live with, and of course all his household-mates—and not least of all, himself—lost immeasurable happiness through it.

If the results of this unchecked tendency had stopped there it would have been bad enough, but they didn't; they never do. Being a man of some means he did not have to go to business every day, and that meant he saw a good deal of his wife. Now nerves are contagious, and after fifteen or twenty years of this constant companionship his wife developed a virulent form of nervous nervous indigestion, and after twenty years of invalidism died of it.

In the meantime the man himself had died, and the wife went to live with her married daughter. The daughter had not inherited the curse to any great degree, but constant care of her mother so wore upon her that she, herself, became nervous and unhappy, lost her poise, lost her prettiness and charm and finally lost her husband.

The other child, a son, had inherited his father's nervousness in its fully developed form. So ill equipped was he for the fight of life that the worries of business actually unbalanced his mind and he died in an insane asylum at an age when he should have been in the prime of life.

The curse has not yet expended itself by any means, but I cannot tell the rest of the story because it has not yet been lived.

There are children in both families. Their lives have been partially blighted by its effects, and besides that they have it in their own blood to fight.

We are not responsible to ourselves alone for our faults. We are responsible to all those whose lives we touch, and to those who are to inherit whatever character we forego.

The unchecked weakness of any sort be it nerves, sensuality, quick temper, or any of the numerous faults of flesh is not only a curse to the possessor of our own lives, but will blight God alone knows how many more. All faults can be fought, and if not entirely conquered, at least so subdued that they will not dominate either our own lives or the strain we pass on to others.

So to fight the good fight that we make that strain as clean as possible is a great and solemn obligation for every man and woman.

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS

HEART AND HOME PROBLEMS. Dear Mrs. Thompson: My wife doesn't love me and I don't love her. She loves another man who does not love his wife and she does not love him. I love another woman who does not love her husband and he does not love her. What must I do?

DAN. Good gracious, what a mixup! This is a case where I can't advise. The parties have all made their own troubles and must get out of them as best they can. My private opinion is that they are all wrong and foolish, and that a good old-fashioned ducking would do them all good.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am losing interest in everything. I am a girl of fifteen, and in the high school. I think a great deal of one of my teachers and although my conduct for the last two terms has not been all that it should be, I have been trying to be good because he wanted me to, or seemed to. But my improvement has been much slower than I thought it would be and he seems to have lost faith in me. He really doesn't seem to even realize that I exist any more, although he was so interested in me for a while. Do you suppose he really is interested in me yet?

I lost my mother about a year ago, and sometimes I get lonesome and just long for sympathy. I have three sisters but only one of them is at home now, and I miss the other two. Of course I can't make her miserable by telling her. I am afraid I complain too much, but I long to tell one of my girl friends about it so she will sympathize. But I'm afraid that wouldn't be nice for some reason. It is awfully hard to be good, because the classes do get so monotonous if you don't have somebody to talk to once in a while. I keep thinking all the time, "What's the use?" I wish you would tell me what is the use of it all, and what there is in life for me that is worth while.

A LONELY LITTLE SOPHOMORE. Dear little girl, I know just how you feel. We all pass through that "What's the use" period at about your age, and even later on we have pessimistic spells like that. But cheer up! They don't last forever. You'll find out, if you will keep your eyes and ears and heart open, that there are lots of reasons for loving life. Every simple little thing is interesting if you'll only tune yourself to it.

It really isn't so hard to be good. Most people are really very good, but they don't think about it all the time. They're not good for the sake of anybody else, but just because they know it's the only way to be happy in the long run.

Interest yourself in outdoor sports. In other people, in good books, in nature. Don't think your teacher is the only man in the world. When you are a little older you won't care about him at all, but there'll be some nice young man who will think the world of you and you'll be sure you can't live without him. And then you own home and happiness. Why, dearie, you'll wonder that you ever thought "What's the use?"

Dear Mrs. Thompson: What is good for an oily complexion and enlarged pores?

MARIAN. Dab the skin several times a day with a mixture of half a pint of pure alcohol and ten cents worth of benzoin. Witch hazel is good for enlarged pores.

with the beets. This makes a very tasty salad.

Peach Cobbler—Take a good-sized dish like a pudding dish, line the sides with a good paste, and fill the dish with peaches, halved and pared. Sweeten according to taste. Place a small cup in the center to keep the crust from sinking. Roll out a crust considerably thicker than for pies, just large enough to cover the top of the dish; cut a slit each way in the center and place over the peaches. Bake a crisp brown and eat with sugar and cream or sweet sauce. This can be made with either fresh or canned peaches.

Grape Marmalade—Pick the grapes from the stems and measure them. Allow a half pint cup of sugar and an equal quantity of grapes and then pulp the grapes. Don't throw away the skins. Put the pulp over the fire in a double boiler or porcelain lined kettle and cook the gently until it is so tender that the seeds come out when the grapes are rubbed through a colander. You must use a fine colander which will not permit the seeds to go through. Return the seedless pulp and the juice flowing from it to the fire with the skins of the grapes, add the sugar, and cook until the mixture is very thick; take from the fire and seal in jars.

Spiced Grapes—Stem, wash and pulp grapes and stew pulp gently until it can be rubbed through a fine colander which will hold the seeds. Measure the pulp. For every five pints of this add the juice of a pint of cider vinegar, four pounds of brown sugar, three tablespoonfuls of ground cinnamon and two of ground cloves. Put these with the grape pulp and juice, turn into a preserving kettle and stew slowly until very thick. Keep in jelly glasses or jars with closely fitting tops.

COOL SUMMER DRINKS.

The acids of fruits and the mineral matter as well as food in many of the drinks make them particularly good. Some drinks are of themselves a food.

Reception Coffee.—Make a quart or two of strong coffee, according to the number served. Strain cool and add sugar to taste, serve in tall glasses with a spoonful of ice cream on top of each. Keep on ice until ready to serve, then the cream is added and served at once.

Chocolate Sirup.—Melt two squares of chocolate with two tablespoonfuls of boiling water, and a cupful of sugar, a speck of salt, and two cups of boiling water; cook five minutes, strain and bottle. Keep in a cool place until needed.

Orangeade.—To each glass, add the strained juice of one orange, two tablespoonfuls of prepared sirup and three-fourths of a cup of plain or charged water.

Pineapple Drink.—Add a pint of grated pineapple to a pint of prepared sirup and a quart of water. Set on ice for three hours, strain and serve. Prepared sirup is sugar and water boiled together until thick. Lemon juice is sometimes added.

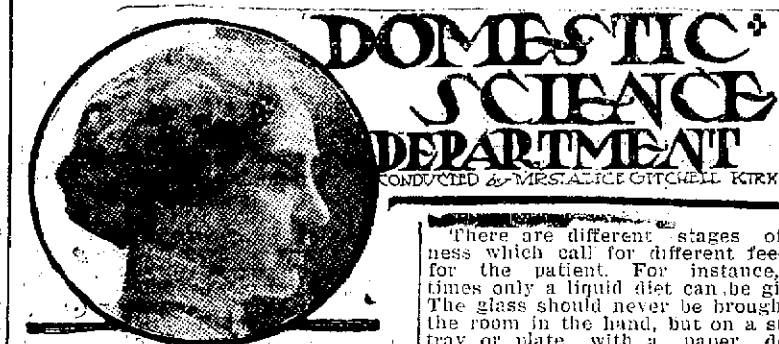

Grape Nectar.—To a quart of grape juice, add a pint of sirup and the juice of four oranges. Serve with a quart of charged water.

Ginger Lemonade.—Cook a half pound of Canton ginger, and one and a half cups of sugar, the rind and juice of three lemons and three pints of water for twenty minutes. Add the juice of six lemons to the sirup, strain and cool. Serve with ice.

STUNNING FROCK FOR AFTERNOONS

Trained Nurse Should Have Scientific Ability as Cook.

A nurse has much more responsibility than the ordinary rounds of the necessary duties in a sick room. It is one thing to have a nurse who looks carefully after ventilation and cleanliness of the room, the care of the bed and proper methods of changing of linen and thinks her work ends here, and it is another to have the nurse who can plan and cook the proper food for patient and serve it in the daintiest and most appetizing manner possible in connection with the other.

Her training surely is not complete unless she is able to do this. If she does not understand the science of foods and professional housekeeping it requires an extra person in the home to wait on the nurse. She should be able to go into the kitchen and prepare the three meals or more for the one who is ill, without disturbing the working regime of the kitchen. If the cooking and preparing of food are understood by the nurse (and no other should have the title of trained nurse), thoroughly, and she knows exactly the right food and how to prepare it quietly and with little or no disturbance in the kitchen, she is usually welcome, otherwise not. Every dish used by them should be washed and put away in the proper place; that is their training or should be.

Preparation of food for the sick is the greatest deficiency among nurses. In every disease which they are called to take care of, they should know the proper foods, right quantity, how often taken, how properly cooked and served, and require little or no waiting on themselves.

Sickness in a family is enough without having a nurse who requires one or two assistants to follow her, washing dishes and putting things in any home. Whether rich or poor, is an extra expense and nurses should have fully mastered the art of economy. There is no excuse for wasteful waste which is frequently seen at this time when any family finds necessary expenses about all they can meet.

Holiday Enjoyment.

Few things are more delightful than a holiday which has been well-earned by conscientious, earnest work, bravely done throughout the year. A complete change in surroundings, interests and occupations should be part of a beneficial holiday. Resting does not mean idleness or cessation from activities or companionship.

DOMESTIC SCIENCE DEPARTMENT

CONDUCTED BY MRS. ALICE OTTIE KIRK

There are different stages of illness which call for different feeding for the patient. For instance, at times only a liquid diet can be given. The glass should never be brought to the room in the hand, but on a small tray or plate with a paper doilie under the glass and a napkin to fold under the patient's chin to prevent any drops from soiling the sheet. A convalescent patient may be given broths, strained vegetable soups, eggs, milk toast, custards, jellies, baked potatoes, chops, chicken, etc.

Nurses should know how to prepare them scientifically. They should know special diets for patients suffering from various diseases. Set rules are not the thing to follow, as a great deal of harm frequently follows unless the nurse is able to recognize symptoms which should mean a change in food.

Food after all is the real thing which cures. Medicine never cures. It is used for emergency only. Good care is essential, but, I repeat, the right food cures.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the perfect cooking of this food. This should be and is a special course and no slipshod cooking should ever be permitted by a nurse. The service should be spotless, never spilling anything nor having hot things cold and cold things lukewarm, and then the patient should enjoy his meal, and he will if comfortably propped up, with this inviting meal properly arranged.

Summing all up a trained nurse should know the chemical composition of the body, food and why necessary, cooking and why necessary, foods and their relation to the body, correct proportions of well-balanced dietaries, effect of starches, digestion and fermentation. With this knowledge work would be easier and service simpler and better, then all illness would be shortened and expense lightened.

Every Day Talks for Every Day People

By FRANCES JOYCE KENNEDY.

Our talk today is to be to the farmers' wives and frankly I admit at the start that I have "cribbed" the most of it.

President Cook of the Mississippi Normal College says that the average farm woman lifts a ton of water a day. The farm well is not according to Prof. Cook the fountain of youth. This is not the fault of the well, however, but of the method of handling the water.

This is the way it is said to happen: The water from the kitchen has to be lifted from the well, carried to the kitchen, poured into a kettle, poured out of the kettle into a dishpan, and from the dishpan out doors.

This makes five times the water is handled, and a bucket containing two gallons, with the containing vessel will weigh twenty pounds. When this is handled five times the total lifting is at least 100 pounds. The cooking of three meals a day will necessitate ten buckets which will make for cooking alone 1000 pounds of lifting a day. When to this is added the water for bathing, scrubbing and the weekly wash, it will easily bring the lift of each day up to a ton.

Women have been doing this for generations, thinking with their husbands, that a water supply system is too expensive. But is it? Mr. Cook claims that even the most out of the way farmhouses can have such a system for $250.

Most people won't find it necessary to use a pencil to figure this out whether a lifetime of unnecessary lifting is worth less than $250. From this it would seem that the fountain of youth lay in the kitchen faucet.

Is the farmer the poor lonesome creature that some thoughtless would-be-sympathizers have painted him? Is a farmer wife as devoid of interests as some people seem to think? We are inclined to say not. Human society is not always the cure for widening the angel of vision or increasing one's capacity for enjoying what the Earth has to offer. If you don't believe this, spend a week at the average summer resort.

Lonesomeness is a matter of habit or a state of mind, which is often the same thing. One can be as lonely amidst the din of a crowded city as on a rolling prairie or the sloping plain. A farmer has no worry about a lack of human interest; he has the ways of the weather, the singularities of the soil, and the human nature of the stock; and he knows that worry won't reduce the interest anyway.

The farmer who is onto his job has no time or inclination to worry. And he isn't happy once he's off his own place, till he gets inside his gate on the return trip.

The farmer retires, moves to town and proceeds to enjoy life, while his city brother has to hustle till the crack of doom. That may be stretching it a wee bit, but the town people have not the large per cent of retired successes to their credit that the farmers can lay claim to.

FREE NIGHT SCHOOL
COURSES FOR WINTER
ARE NOW ANNOUNCED

Registration Begins Friday, October
10—Term of Twenty Weeks
Begins October 14.

Registration for the free evening school for men and women over sixteen years of age not attending the daytime schools will begin on Friday, October 10. The following Saturday and Monday have also been set aside for registration and the high school building will be open on these nights in order that all may have a chance to enter and be prepared for the beginning of work on October 14. The term will be twenty weeks in length, exclusive of holidays and classes will meet at the high school building from 7:30 to 9:30 o'clock on Tuesday and Thursday evenings of each week. The instruction offered is divided into four different divisions—commercial, domestic science, turning and carpentry, electrical appliances and gasoline engines, courses for foreigners, and public speaking. Salesmanship, typewriting and shorthand, telegraphy, bookkeeping and penmanship, commercial or shop arithmetic are the courses offered in the first division. Classes will be organized in any subject mentioned if ten or more persons enroll and a competent teacher can be secured.

The course in salesmanship not only covers the field of selling, and the principles underlying it, but includes through the press, window-decorating and general store management. It is expected that Prof. Neystrom of Madison will again have this class. In bookkeeping, typewriting and shorthand, the class will be divided into two groups for beginners, as well as for those more advanced. Mr. D. D. Manross will have the work in bookkeeping and penmanship, and Mr. Guy W. Curtis in typewriting and shorthand. The domestic science division includes cooking, advanced dressmaking, beginner's dressmaking, plain sewing, children's clothes, and millinery. There has been a call by the mothers of the city for a class in the making of children's clothes. It is hoped that so many will join this class that it will be necessary to divide it into two groups; one group interested in clothes for babies; the other taking up work on clothes for the larger children. If the class is so large that the division is made, the first or baby clothes group will meet in the afternoon, and occasionally Miss Anderson, the municipal nurse, will give short talks on the care and food of the baby. Mrs. H. H. Coplan will have the class in cooking. Miss Georgia Glidden will have charge of the work in advanced dressmaking. Miss Ida Lundie will conduct the beginner's class in dressmaking. The class in plain sewing will be in charge of Miss N. Beth Bailey of the high school domestic science department.

Janesville is receiving great credit throughout the state for the work done in the dressmaking department of the evening school because it was rated as the best of its kind in the state. Its teacher, Miss Georgia Glidden, was called upon by the State Educational Board to give an outline of twelve lessons and an address before the recent conference of industrial school teachers at Madison. This was one of the most interesting features of the conference and led to a lively discussion. Her outline of work was recommended for adoption in all the industrial schools of the state.

In the third division are classes in mechanical drawing and wood-turning, the reading of blueprints, roof-framing, stair-building, pattern-making, carpentry, and furniture-making. H. H. Coplan will have the work in mechanical drawing and wood-turning.

Electrical appliances will be taught by John Arbutnot and E. B. Norris of the college of engineering, University of Wisconsin. Reading and writing for foreigners, everyday arithmetic, and everybody's class in English are classes which should prove of great value, as they have in the past, to those whose training in these branches has been deficient. It is hoped employers will foreign-born workmen will acquaint them with the opportunities offered. Miss Maude Munroe will be in charge of the classes.

An innovation in the courses of the night school are classes in public speaking, citizenship, and parliamentary practice. The membership will be limited to twenty young men and Assistant Principal J. T. Shear of the high school will conduct the class. A deposit fee of $2.00 will be required of every student enrolling, which will be refunded if attendance is punctual and regular. Barring sickness and attendance of less than eighty per cent will be deemed unsatisfactory.

CLASS PIN SELECTED
BY SOPHOMORES YESTERDAY

Members of the sophomore class at the local high school believe they have the naivest class pin which has yet been chosen by second year class of any previous years. Yesterday they made a final decision, and this morning the order was sent in for a large number, practically every sophomore desiring to have one of these emblems. The pin is perfectly square, is not too large, and has each corner raised up, with 1913 raised on the corners. In the center are the letters J. H. S. in block lettering. Several members of the design on it. The ring is much more expensive, but is not as liable to be lost. It is expected that the pins will be here by the last of next week.

MAGNOLIA

Magnolia, Oct. 1.—The barn and corn crib on the Pat Ryan farm, which is rented by Clifford Cortright, were struck by lightning and burned to the ground during the storm of Tuesday.

10 CENT "CASCARETS"
STRAIGHTEN YOU UP

No Sick Headache, Bilious Stomach, Coated Tongue or Constipated Bowels by morning.

Get a 10-cent box now. Turn the rascals out—the headache, biliousness, indigestion, the sick, sour stomach and foul gases—turn them out tonight and keep them out with Cascarets.

Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then and never know the misery caused by a lazy liver, clogged bowels or an upset stomach.

Don't put in another day of distress. Let Cascarets cleanse your stomach; remove the sour, fermenting food; take the excess bile from your liver and carry out all the constipated matter and poison in the bowels. Then you will feel great.

A Cascaret tonight straightens you out by morning. They work while you sleep. A 10-cent box from any drug store means a clear head, sweet stomach, clean, healthy liver and bowel action for months. Children love Cascarets because they never gripe or sicken.

George Bishop was an Albany visitor Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Harnack and family spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Henry Harnack.

During Tuesday's storm lightning struck and burned the large barn on the Pat Ryan farm, a grange was also destroyed and the tobacco shed was badly damaged. Mr. Cortright, by the help of neighbors, saved his team, hogs and calves which were in the barn, but a large amount of hay was burned.

Steve Wells is entertaining relatives.

John Meely of Evansville spent Sunday at the parental home.

Mrs. Mary Adams was an Evansville visitor Saturday.

NEW GLARUS RESIDENT
PASSED AWAY MONDAY

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

New Glarus, Oct. 1.—Monday morning occurred the death of Robert Marcus Gimer, being a shock to all his friends, having been sick for some time. He was born June 6, 1864, in Glarus, Switzerland. He came to America in 1890. In 1908 he went back to Switzerland where on May 3, 1909 he married Marie Dudley, returning to America again. He is believed to have a widow and two small sons, the oldest being four years old, and the other one week old. His funeral was held this afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. John Kassy spent a few days in Monroe last week visiting with relatives.

Mrs. Paul Figi and Mrs. Marty left Friday morning for Dubuque, Ia., where they will visit with relatives and friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Figi returned home last week after spending a few weeks with relatives in Canada.

John N. Baller and Nick Hefty spent Tuesday in Monroe.

Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Fricks are the happy parents of a baby girl born Sunday. Congratulations.

The ball game which was held Monday afternoon proved to be bad luck. The game was between New Glarus and Belleville. Belleville made the first score. Roy Marty the pitcher of the New Glarus team had the misfortune of breaking his finger. The game was ended, but it had made a very good start. New Glarus played Sunday with the Monroe team. The score was 2 to 3 in favor of New Glarus.

Dinner Stories

A traveler was boasting to an Irishman about the speed of English trains. "Why," said the traveler, "we run our trains so fast that the telegraph poles look like a continuous fence."

"Do they now?" said Pat. "Well, sir, I was wain day on a train in Ireland, and, as we passed first a field of turnips, then wain of carrots, then wain of water, we were goin' that fast I thought it was broth!"

At a meeting of a woman suffrage organization in Kansas City, Kan., it was suggested that the members talk to their servants and other women workers with a view to forming an estimate as to the strength of suffrage sentiment in that particular locality. One member, who has employed the same washerwoman for the last six years, reported that she put the question to this worthy lady:

"Are you in favor of votes for women?"

"I don't pay any attention to politics," the washerwoman replied. "I leave all that to my husband."

"Well, how does your husband stand on woman suffrage?"

"He doesn't stand at all. He believes in woman staying at home and minding their own business."

"How many families do you wash for?"

"Six."

"And what does your husband do?"

"He ain't doing anything right now—unless he 'ound something this mornin'."

SNEAK THIEVES ROB
WOMAN AT STATION

Woman Leaves Pocketbook on Window Sill and Thief Takes Purse Containing Seventeen Dollars.

While changing cars at the Chicago Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad station at seven o'clock last evening, an unknown woman, was robbed of her purse containing over seventeen dollars. The woman had left her handbag on the window sill of the toilet room and when about to purchase her ticket noticed the loss and on returning found that a small purse containing over seventeen dollars in her handbag had been taken. The other contents were unharmed.

As her train was about to leave for Madison, no complaint was made to the police authorities. This is the second case within the last month, of women losing their pocketbooks by leaving them on the window sill and forgetting them. The window is open to the platform on the north side of the station and the thief could easily reach in and steal the purse and the St. Paul men are planning on putting a screen over the window for protection.

The cost of living still increases, and man is jolted all to pieces, his worried spirit groans; behold that stately Michigan whose price has soared away up yander, to 40,000 bones! Of course we know that Cobb's a dandy; we all declare that he's the candy when in TY COBB spiked shoes and trunks; he shines among the nation's battlers, he's first in everything that matters—but forty thousand plunks! There's joy on all our shining faces when Cobb cavorts around the bases on eager, rapid heels; he kills our martial souls with anger as harder yet he sprints and harder—but forty thousand wheels! No worthy gift has been denied him, and other players seen beside him as slow as motor trucks; he is too numerous to mention, he gives the game the needed tension—but forty thousand bucks! That gold, when duly mined and smelted, would buy a duke or earl that's belted, perhaps, a throneless king; what wonder that, when we are shopping, and find the prices this way popping, we weep like everything?

Another Sufferer Relieved.

Romayor, Texas.—"I suffered terribly with a displacement and bladder trouble. I was in misery all the time and could not walk any distance. I thought I never could be cured, but my mother advised me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I did."

"I am cured of the displacement and the bladder trouble is relieved. I think the Compound is the finest medicine on earth for suffering women." —Mrs. VIOLA JASPER, Romayor, Texas.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Royal Origin of "Blackguard."

The board of green cloth is responsible for inventing "blackguard," a word that has altered in original meaning. When first used it was not at all a term of reproach, but referred to the lowly but honorable occupation of carrying coal in the king's palace. Can you find any other bad word in the English language that can boast of such a royal origin?—London Chronicle.

"If we could only keep it hidden for a few days!" I said. "But, of course, the papers will get it, and just now, with columns every day about Miss Patty's clothes—"

"Her what?"

"And all the princes of the blood sending presents, and the king not favoring it very much—"

"What are you talking about?"

"About Miss Jennings' wedding. Don't you read the newspaper?"

He hadn't really known who she was up to that minute. He put down the tray and got up.

"I hadn't connected her with the newspaper, Miss Jennings," he said, and lighted a cigarette over the lamp. Something in his face startled me. I must say—

"You're not going to give up now?" I asked. I got up and put my hand on his arm, and I think he was shaking.

"If you do, I'll go out and drown myself, head down, in the spring—"

He had been going to run away—I saw it then—but he put a hand over mine. Then he looked at the door where Miss Patty had gone out and gave himself a shake.

"I'll stay," he said. "We'll fight it out on this line if it takes all summer, Minnie. After all, what's blue blood to good red blood?"

Which was almost what the bishop had said!

Mr. Moody took indignation that night—not that he always had it, but this was worse—and Mrs. Moody came to my room about two o'clock and knocked at the door.

"You'd better come," she said. "There's no doctor, and he's awful bad."

We went down to Mr. Moody's room, and he was sitting up in bed with his knees drawn up to his chin and a hot-water bottle held to his hip.

"Look at your work, woman," he said to me when I opened the door. "I'm dying!"

"You look sick," I said, going over to the bed. It never does to cross them when they get to the water-bottle stage. "The pharmacy clerk's gone to a dance over at Trimble's, but I guess I can find you some whiskey."

"I never touch the stuff and you both know it," he snarled. He had a fresh pain just then and stopped, clutching up the bottle. "Besides," he finished when it was over, "I haven't got any whiskey."

Well, to make a long story short, we got him to agree to some whiskey from the pharmacy, with a drop of peppermint in it, if he could wash it down with spring water so it wouldn't do any harm.

I put on some stockings of Mrs. Moody's and a petticoat and a shawl and started for the spring house.

It was still snowing, and part of the time Mrs. Moody's stockings were up to their knees. The wind was blowing hard, and when I rounded the corner of the house my lantern went out. I stood there in the storm, with the shawl flapping, thanking heaven I was a single woman, and about ready to go back and tell Mr. Moody what I thought of him when I looked toward the spring-house.

At first I thought it was a fire, then I saw that the light was coming from the windows. Somebody was inside, with a big fire and all the lights going.

I went over cautiously to one of the windows, wading in deep snow to get there—and if you have ever done that in a pair of bedroom slippers you can realize the state of my mind—and looked in.

There were three chairs drawn up in a row in front of the fire, with my bearskin hearth-rug on them to make a couch, and my shepherd's plaid shawl folded at one end for a pillow. And stretched on that with her long seal-skin coat laid over her was Dorothy Jennings, Miss Patty's younger sister! She was alone, as far as I could see, and she was leaning on her elbow with her cheek in her hand, staring at the fire. Just then the door into the pantry opened and out came Mr. Dick himself.

"Were you calling, honey?" he said, coming over and looking down at her. "You were such a long time!" says she, glancing up under her lashes at him. "I was lonely!"

"Bless you," says Mr. Dick, stooping over her. "What did I ever do with-out you?"

I could have told her a few things he did, but by that time it was coming over me pretty strong that here was the real Dicky Carter and that I had an extra one on my hands. The minute I looked at this one I knew that nobody but a blind man would mistake one for the other, and Mr. Thoburn wasn't blind. I tell you I stood out in that snow-bank and perspired!

Well, it was no place for me unless they knew I was around. I waded around to the door and walked in, and there was a grand upsetting of the seal-skin coat and my shepherd's plaid shawl. Mr. Dick jumped to his feet and Mrs. Dick sat bolt upright and stared at me over the backs of the chairs.

"Minnie!" cried Mr. Dick. "As I'm a married man, it's Minnie herself, Dorothy, don't you remember Minnie?"

She came toward me with her hand out. "I'm awfully glad to see you, again," she said. "Of course I remember—way you are hardly dressed at all! You must be frozen!"

I went over to the fire and emptied my bedroom slippers of snow. Then I sat down and looked at them both.

"Frozen!" repeated I. "I'm in a hot sweat. If you two children meant to come, why in creation didn't you come in time?"

"We did," replied Mr. Dick, promptly. "We crawled under the wire fence into the deer park at five minutes to twelve. The will said 'Be on the ground,' and I was—flat on the ground!"

"We were held up by the snow," he explained. "We got a sleigh to come over in, but we walked up the hill and came here. I don't mind saying that my wife's people don't know about this yet, and we're going to lay low until we've cooked up some sort of a scheme to tell them." Then he came over and put his hand on my shoulder.

"Poor old Minnie!" he said; "honest, I'm sorry. I've been a hard child to raise, haven't I? But that's all over, Minnie. I've got an incentive now, and it's 'steady, old boy, for me. You and I will run the place and run it right!"

"I don't want to!" I retorted, holding my bedroom slippers to steam before the fire. "I'm going to buy out Timmon's candy store and live a quiet life, Mr. Dick. This place is making me old."

"Nonsense! We're going to work together, and we'll make this the busiest spot in seven counties. Dorothy and I have got it all planned out and we've got some corking good ideas. He put his hands in his pockets and strutted up and down. "It's the day of advertising, you know, Minnie," he said. "You've got to have the goods, and then you've got to let people know you've got the goods. What would you say to a shooting-gallery in the basement, under the reading-room?"

I couldn't be light-hearted to save my life.

"Your sister's been wild all day," I told Mrs. Dick. "She got your letter to-day—yesterday—but I don't think she's told your father yet."

"What!" she screeched, and caught at the mantel-piece to hold herself. "Not Pat!" she said, horrified, "and father! Here!"

Well, I listened while they told me. They hadn't had the faintest idea that Mr. Jennings and Miss Patty were there at the sanatorium.

"The idea was this, Minnie," said Mr. Dick. "Old—I mean Mr. Jennings—is not well; he has a chronic disposition—"

"Disposition, I call it," put in Mr. Jennings' daughter.

"And he's apt to regard my running away with Dorothy when I haven't a penny as more of an embarrassment than an elopement."

"Fiddle!" exclaimed Mrs. Dick. "I asked you to marry me, and now they're here and have to spoil it all. The thought of her father and his disposition suddenly overpowered her and she put her yellow head on the back of a chair and began to cry."

"I can't tell him!" she sobbed. "I wrote to Pat—why doesn't Pat tell him? Maybe she will think of some way to break it to him. She can do a lot with father."

"I hope she can think of some way to break another Richard Carter to the people of the house," I said, tartly.

"It's on the level, Rose. Rose, I don't care for anything. I want you to marry me!"

The doorkeeper had been told not to disturb Inspector McGee. We will join the doorkeeper. It seems more tactful. Let us merely glance in on them ten minutes later. They are seated again; and McGee is patting her hand, ponderously but yet softly. Rosalie's eyes, usually so big and grave—in sharp contrast with her smiles and her dimples—are shining as we have never seen them shine before.

"How did it come," asked Martin, "that you could ever take a great big cow of a fellow like me?"

The mischief danced in her dimples.

"Because you are so big an nut-head!" she said. Then the dimples went away, and the eyes again regained over her expression.

"Because you're a real man, Marty. Because you've plucked ahead and done things, and because you're a brute, too, I guess. It ain't good for a man to be too kind an smart."

That's for the woman—that's my part in this combination. An' besides, the way your hair grows in front is cute."

"Aw, cut that out, Rosalie"—this in a tone of infinite tenderness—was as playful as a coquette with the dignity of an inspector.

And—but we had better rejoin the doorman.

Only we should glance in just once more. Inspector McGee, as though struck with a sudden humorous idea, is saying:

"It's funny, Rosalie—here we've got engaged—and I don't know your real name!"

That's how I'm sure you love me, Martin. When folks are in love, they don't ask no questions. Well, it's Rose Granger, if you've got to know, born Smith. A widow—sad, not grass. I married Jim Granger. He was no good, but I cared for him till he died. You've got thirty years or so—because I sense we'll both live long—to listen to what Jim Granger did to me. We've other things to talk about first, Marty, you haven't given me an engagement present."

"You'll get a diamond solitaire as soon as I can beat it up-town!" said Martin.

"Somethin' else first. I want you to fix it so the New York Police Department makes an awful bluff at findin' Juan Perez—an' never looks in the right place."

I guess I can promise that," laughed Inspector McGee. Less than a half an hour before, he had been talking about his duty, but one's ideas of duty vary according to the shifting lights of circumstances.

"An' for a wedding present," pursued Rosalie, "I guess you can see that this poor sister never gets puts through."

"That's easy, too," replied McGee. "Say—now that everything is fixed up, where's that Estrilla-Perez person, anyhow? What did you do with him?"

"That information is goin' to be my wedding present to you," responded Rosalie Le Grange.

CHAPTER XXV.
Taking Stock.

"HOWS this headline for that stock job," asked Tommy North, suddenly looking up from his list of things. "Mountain Climbers Wear Out Hose and Come Back Without a Hole?"

"Pretty good," replied Betsy-Barbara from her corner by the typewriter. "Now get the rest of it." She resumed her furious little stabs at the keys.

The sudden conclusion of the Hanska case left Betsy-Barbara afloat. She could not go back to Arden if she could, and she would not if she could. It was her whim to remain in New York; but the select young ladies' seminaries of the metropolis hesitated to employ a young woman who had figured so consistently in the front pages of the yellow newspapers.

Between trips in search of employment, Betsy-Barbara continued to typewrite the correspondence of the Thomas W. North Agency. Tommy, indeed, had offered her regular employment as his clerk. She spurned that offer, holding it to be more gratitude. When she had learned the trade, she said, she might accept a position as typist, and not a minute before. Betsy-Barbara was vastly improved in technique. She could beat a passable circular letter in not more than three attempts and twenty-five minutes.

Tommy, untroubled by her business-like reminder, continued to view Betsy-Barbara. Presently the pencil dropped from his hand. He turned in his swivel chair and called: "Betsy-Barbara!" in a tone inappropriate to office hours.

Being a woman, she caught it. "Tommy North," she said, without looking up from the keys, "read me the motto over your desk!"

"Well, what does that mean?" asked Betsy-Barbara. And she continued to write, "respectfully solicit your patronage for the Thomas W. North Agency." At least, that is what she thought she was writing. As a matter of fact, what she produced was this:

respect fully solicit your patronage for teh 2Thomasw North agency."

"But what I want to talk about now," replied Tommy in a wheedling tone, "is a matter of business. I've been taking stock. This fine going concern made last month a hundred and fifty dollars above light, rent, office expenses and overhead charges. That revolver contract and that beauty-parlor deal are as good as permanent. By Christmas we'll be making a hundred dollars a week."

"You'll be making," corrected Betsy-Barbara as she jerked back the typewriter carriage to begin the struggle with another line.

"That's the point of these remarks. You ought—he paused here—"you ought to have a share."

"If you'll kindly turn your eyes to the panel beside the door," said Betsy-Barbara, "you'll see a card which reads 'Business is Business.' The idea of talking partnership to a mere stenographer who hasn't learned her trade!"

"That isn't fair. You always put me in the wrong, somehow. You know you're responsible for the whole thing. Who made me start this concern? Who got me to cut out the booze and go into business for myself?"

"Well," replied Betsy-Barbara, "a tract or a preacher might have done that—anything which set you on the right way at the right time. And you wouldn't think of offering a partnership to a tract or a preacher."

"Betsy-Barbara," called Tommy again. And on that name, uttered all too gently for the address of a stern employer, he rose and crossed to her side. Somehow she did not protest—although she continued to look down on the keys. Her fingers sloped.

Tommy gulped; and his first words, as he settled on the stool at her side, were far from his original intention—and further still from strict business.

"Betsy-Barbara—why did you play around with that poor devil of an Estrilla?"

"If I wanted to be impertinent, I'd ask how that concerns you," replied Betsy-Barbara, saucily. "Well—because I liked him, I suppose."

"You didn't like him too well?" inquired Tommy.

"Of course not—now, I'm just sorry for him," she replied. Then, as though duty drove, she picked up an eraser and began furiously to eradicate a figure "2" which she had printed for a quotation mark.

"Do you remember," Tommy pursued, "the last time I got drunk—the last time I ever will!"

"The shoe-buckle, night? Yes."

She resumed typewriting with furious energy and utterly incommensurate results. But even the noise of the typewriter could not silence Tommy now. And when she came to the end of the line, she stopped again.

"You never knew why, of course!" said Tommy. "Do you remember some one coming in the front hall and going right out again? That was I. You were sitting—I saw you looking at him, I thought."

"You didn't think right," responded Betsy-Barbara. She paused while the truth in her struggled against woman's instinct to use strategy in that branch of human activity which is woman's chief business. The truth won.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Gazette, October 2, 1873.
 —We just had our attention directed to an abusive article published in the Beloit Free Press, wherein the editor lashes a Janesville liverman severely. It seems that Ingersoll came up here during last week on business matters with an old raw boned, spavined and half starved wreck that he called a horse and billeted the beast at one of our fashionable stables. The horse had been suffering from the want of food all summer and as soon as his harness was off he began to lunge in all the hay and oats that was in the establishment. The stable owner was a kind hearted man and he did not rest until the huge appetite of the starving beast had been filled giving the the Beloit equine enough to last a month or two. And now Ingersoll is mad because he was charged a dollar for a bin of oats and the stack of hay and the many attentions that were given the horse which was really a bunch of bones. We did not think that of him.

The Harris Manufacturing Company are now placing a powerful steam force pump in their new building, to be used exclusively for the protection of their own mill and adjacent property from fire. Large pipes communicate with various portions of the building and the hydrants are to be placed at convenient localities to which hose can be attached in case of fires. The pump is equal to that of our own steam fire engine and can be brought into use with only a few minutes delay. It forms an almost perfect safeguard against conflagration.

The alarm of fire at eleven o'clock last night was caused by the burning of a shanty near the M. & St. P. roundhouse belonging to P. Fitzgerald. He was away from his home at the time of the fire, but his wife and two children were home in bed and asleep. They were awakened by the flames and escaped with a little clothing and some bedding. They could not account for the origin of the fire. The building was destroyed.
